The Department of Administration is currently recruiting for members for a number of local citizens out-of-home care review panels each composed of five members and two alternates.

Effective July 1, 1990, there was created in the Department of Administration the Citizen's Review Panel for Permanency Planning. The purpose of this panel is to review cases of children in State custody who are in either foster care or other out-of-home placement.

Applicants should have training, experience, special knowledge, or a demonstrated interest in the welfare of children. An out-of-home care provider or a person employed by the court system, the Department of Health and Social Services, the Office of Public Advocacy, the Public Defender Agency, or the Department of Law may not serve as a member or alternate member of a local panel. Also those persons who have committed a felony or have contributed to the delinquency of a minor or violated a law with substantially similar elements may not be appointed.

Panels review the case plan of children in the custody of the State and in all out-of-home placement. The panel determines whether the child has an adequate case plan and if it is being followed. Panels also determine whether there has been compliance with applicable provisions of the Indian Child Welfare Act, other applicable State and Federal laws, and court review requirements. Panels submit reports which make advisory recommendations based on the best interest of the child. We anticipate that the volunteer panels will meet approximately one day per month.

If you are interested in being considered for panel membership, please submit a resume to: James J. Fox, Deputy Commissioner, Department of Administration, P.O. Box C, Juneau, Alaska 99811. Members of minority groups, especially Alaska Natives, are encouraged to apply.
