

Bartlett Urges Change To Aid Vet Pilots

WASHINGTON—Sen. E. L. (Bob) Bartlett has urged a change in the veterans' assistance laws to aid veterans enrolled in pilot training courses.

In a statement presented in his behalf to the Senate Subcommittee on Veterans' Affairs, Bartlett argued for payment of educational assistance allowances monthly to veterans taking flight training. Benefits are now paid quarterly.

Bartlett is recovering from a heart ailment at the Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital.

Bartlett said that the 90-day waiting period for the first installment caused "an undue hardship on veterans and flight schools alike."

The quarterly payment procedure, the Senator said, "has the effect of rendering this program inoperable for many who would wish to take advantage of its provisions."

Okakok Tells of Little People

By GUY OKAKOK
Barrow Correspondent

BARROW, (Special) — I'm sorry folks as I have promised and mentioned in my last column that I would donate few items using from my own manuscript.

Now, after I had completed the whole story about the little dwarfs that they have seen, and talk with them in face to face.

Years ago, about four were seen down the town beach in the night, and one of them told one of the boys, giving his name too.

The little dwarf said that they are seven of them here in this beach but won't be able to show themselves. He said the same crew are coming back tomorrow same hour in a same canoe.

After he has told the boy, this little dwarf disappears, where to, he doesn't know.

Well, next day, when the hour drew nigh he and some of the others went down to the same beach. Boys been watching here and there waiting for the little dwarf's arrival.

"Look," said one of the boy, "there they are."

They were already beached, had pulled their little canoe off shore. They saw them but won't be able to talk to the other small dwarfs. They all disappears, where to.

The little dwarfs could have walked with amongst the kids, or older people, they wouldn't know.

But, anyway, this a real one. The little dwarf had said that they don't travel in day time but in night when it gets dark they do.

Sorry folks, I had to cut it and use some of it so you could read it. It is true, the people, or kids, saw them every year here in Barrow village. This I used it in this column, only a short one, and I do not know whether I could add more or not next time, can't promise.

LAST FEAST

After celebrating and feasting almost all month this June here in Barrow village, after nine whales been caught by the whalers.

Now yesterday we heard through radio that the last celebration, I mean Nalukaturuk, will be held in Wainwright tomorrow Friday, June.

According to the rumors, while yet, whales running, they had to abandoned their whaling ground and hit for their village, as Barrow people flew down already to Wainwright to celebrate the Nalukaturuk.

I do not know how many times bush plane took trip down to Wainwright. There still few here yet that wants to go down and participate some muktuk and kuak.

How couldn't they go? They knows the answer.

STILL AT IT

We still don't know when the construction will through working on the Will and Wiley Post Airport here in Barrow. They still at it.

Planes every time they arrives, they'd circled two times and when they couldn't land there they'd turned around and hit for the other base strip.

ALMOST DONE

Three BIA schools here are almost finished, they are mopped, polished, and so on.

We're still working the Jr. High School yet, probably another week or more. Anyway, I thanked all the NYC employees who worked here in schools (Continued on page 8)
