held. Twenty-four children are enrolled. With bake sales, donations and volunteer help, the village has continued its Head Start Program.

Kaltag is a village of 226 people. Last year there were enough funds for a Head Start program.

Unfortunately the program wasn't funded in Kaltag this year. But this did not keep the village from having a Head Start Program.

The women sponsored a bake sale and village dance to raise funds for purchasing some food for a lunch program.

Everyone donated wood to keep the Women's Club house warm where the program is being

The world is so full of a number of things,
I'm sure we should all be as happy as kings.

Galluzzi Heads Haskell Institute

Robert L. Bennett, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, announced today that Wallace E. Galluzzi has been named Superintendent of Haskell Institute, Lawrence, Kansas.

Haskell is a post-high school vocational training school for Indians. Galluzzi was principal at the Institute and has been acting superintendent the past two months since the former superintendent, Thomas Tommancey, became assistant area director for education at Muskogee, Oklahoma.

Galluzzi, a native of Brockway Pa., is a graduate of State Teachers College, Slippery Rock, Pa., and holds a master's degree from Northern State Teachers College, Aberdeen, S.D.

He joined the Bureau of Indian Affairs in the Department of the Interior in 1949 as a teacher at Standing Rock Agency, N.D.

He served in positions of increasing responsibility as a teacher and education specialist before being named principal at Haskell in 1963.

Alaska Line has a better way to get your car to Seattle!

Of course if you think half the fun is getting there, you might prefer braving the elements to a warm dry boat ride. Chances are, though, that if your car had a vote, she'd just as soon make the trip via Alaska Line. Since transporting automobiles is one of Alaska Line's specialties (along with containerized cargo, LTL, and just about every other kind of cargo you can think of), they've made shipping your car as convenient as it could be.

For more information about the effortless way to transport your car ... call or write your nearby Alaska Line office. Say that you read somewhere that The Man From Alaska Line has a better way to transport almost everything ... and you'd like him to prove it!
