Page 4 Tundra Times, Friday, March 8, 1968 Eskimo Girl Does Groundwork for Boss's Campaign

Miss Brenda Itta talks to Mr. & Mrs. Bob Tuckfield and a little girl at Point Hope.

Brenda Itta Visits 26 Villages For Her Boss Sen. Gruening

(Special to the Tundra Times) Barrow, Miss Brenda Itta, that she had to keep her who has been a member of the heavy gloves on while Washington, D. C., staff of making notes. U.S. Senator Emest Gruening for the past two years, has just completed travels to 26 villages in north western Alaska.

This represents the first time personal visits have been made so extensively to Alaska villages by a member of the staff of any of the offices in the Alaska Congressional delegation.

Notebook in hand, Brenda met with the village councils at all 26 villages and also went from house to house in each one gathering informatfor Senator Gruening's use on what the village and family problems were.

Reports the Eskimo assistant sent to Washington following each visit to a village are forming the basis of action by Senator Gruening and his staff to improve conditions throughout the region.

Brenda, who speaks the Eskimo dialect, northern began her travels from Barrow on January 24th. She concluded her northwestern Alaska swing at Unalakleet February 27th. Villages visited ranged in size from her birth place, Barrow, which she calls "the New York of the little North''-present population 2.200-to Kobuk, where only 68 people live. Although she is understandably partial to her birth place, Brenda offers the opinion Kiana was the most that beautiful of the villages to which she traveled. She described Noorvik also as a very nice village. The coldest weather Brenda experienced during her midwinter trek was 62 degrees below at Shungnak. Blizzard conditions Wainwright and Noatak caused transportation delays of two and a half days each at those villages, and she was weathered also in at Kotzebue for several days when bush planes did not to outlying villages ny. because of the extreme cold. Barrow and Kotzebue were the only villages in the list Brenda had ever where before. At Point visited she discovered a Hope relative, a great aunt, whose there she had not being before her arrival.

at Shungnak, where Brenda An Eskimo girl born in met with the city council,

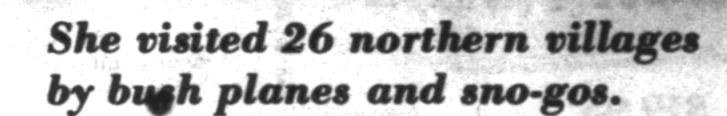

She attempted to take a photograph of the unique meeting but her camera mechanism froze so that the camera would not operate.

Brenda, who is 24, is the daughter of Noah and Mollie Itta of Barrow. She is the next to the eldest in a family of 11 children.

Brenda has worked for Senator Gruening since January of 1966. She was graduated from Mt. Edgecumbe School, Arkansas City Junior College at Chilocco, Okla., and Haskell Institute Kansas.

She worked briefly for the Bureau of Indian Affairs and a private firm for Washington, D. C., before joining Senator Gruening's staff.

"So many people all through the villages where I traveled remembered Sen. Gruening," Brenda said. "They all called him Governor." (Gruening was Governor of Alaska from 1939 to 1953 and visited many villages during his incumbency.) Brenda traveled by bush airplane, snow-go and dog team. She stayed in the villages mostly with Bureau of Indian Affairs teachers although in two places she was a guest of VISTA Volunteers. While on the village circuit Brenda ate native food almost included entirely. This pickled muktuk, moose, Ptarmigan pickled soup, salmon, reindeer and caribou stew, whale meat, sheefish, dried fish and the Eski mo delicacy known as kwoak (frozen fish or meat slivers dipped in seal oil). The traveler was greatly surprised to find that young children throughout northwestern Alaska are no longer learning the Eskimo language. At Noatak a member of the city council told her that his little girl, who had greeted the plane, ran home and said: "Daddy, there's a white lady here who knows how to speak in Eskimo."

Senator Bob Bartlett Given Warm Welcome in Senate After Illness

When Senator E. L. "Bob"

of many

I hope it was slight-and I friend, the senior Senator Ambler, Deering, Buckland, Mike Mansfield, D-Sen. followed his recovery all the Mont., said: from Alaska... Shishmaref, Wales, Teller, time, when he was in the "Mr. President, it is note-"....He is an effective Brevig Mission, Nome, White hospital and at home conval-Mountain, Golovin, Elim, member of the Appropriations worthy at this time to state escing. I am delighted to Shaktoolik, Stebbins and St. Committee. He is an effective to the Senate that we have welcome him today to the with us again the distinguish-Senator. Bob Bartlett is a Michael. Halls of the Senate." ed Senator from Alaska, the man who approaches his The most persistent village Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., duties at all times with the problems Brenda encountered Honorable E. L. "Bob" "Mr. President, ordinarily were lack of employment, Bartlett." interest of the country at this would be an occasion of Mansfield's statement was heart. He is a man who with literally no people unmixed rejoicing. However, impresses those who serve having any gainful work at followed by applause. all in some villages, housing. Sen. Thomas Kuchel, Rwith him as a warm and the Senator from Alaska electricity and transportation. Calif., said, "Mr. President, friendly individual. looks so well and so vigorous "The Scriptures say: A Brenda found that the that we can expect more I wish to make this welcome absence of adequate lighting man that hath friends must from him-such as the distingnonpartisan, and say to the was proving to be harmful to uished Senator from North show himself friendly. distinguished senior Senator able "Bob Bartlett has many from Alaska; All of your Carolina had just cited-in children's eyes in most friends. Perhaps it is villages. She herself exfriends in the U.S. Senate, terms of more persuasion, undue industry, more study, Democrats and Republicans, because he shows himself perienced some eye trouble after long exposure to thank God that you are refriendly. Even more so, it and more work. may be because others "Such competition, therekerosene lamp light. covered and have returned to It was so cold in the armory respect him for his patriotism the Senate. On this occasion (Continued on page 5)

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, Dcousins at Wainwright. after his illness of the than that, his great heart " W. Virginia, "Mr. President, villages Senator Other inflammation of the heart Gruening's assistant visited Sen. B. Everett Jordan, D-I wish to take a moment to lining, his colleagues in the N.C., "...Of course, I was to discuss problems with the express my pleasure in greatly distressed when he Senate warmly welcomed him. people in their own language seeing delightful, our Acknowledging his return, had the slight heart attackincluded Kivalina, Selavik, pleasant, and congenial

we all join in offering every and the dilligence to which known Bartlett came back to his good wish " I have referred and for his She also visited a number of and senatorial duties last month great mind-but even more

Senator Gruening has made it a practice to visit all of the major Native villages in nonelection years.

He is frequently seen at Barrow, Nome, Kotzebue and Unalakleet, and last year he his administrative as sistant, George Sundborg, spent most of a week on St. Lawrence Island delving in depth into the problems of the communities of Savoonga and Gambell.

The older Eskimos know Gruening well. It was he who while serving nearly 14 years as Governor of Alaska fought a successful campaign against the opposition of the entrenched white establishment of those days to open the first polling places in Eskimo villages so that residents of the far North could participate in their government.

Governor Gruening also sponsored and over consideropposition gained enactment of the Territory's antidiscrimination laws. He encouraged Eskimos to run for the Legislature, and many have served in it with distinction in the ensuing years.