

Death, Fire, Many Topics In Barrow

By GUY OKAKOK
Barrow Correspondent

It was awfully cold when we heard a fire alarm. Trucks were already there when we reached the building. Firemen were wearing only their uniform when they arrived from the base. Didn't take them long to quench the fire.

All the childrens got out safely except one dog never did able to escape the fire. Lost lot of their belongings.

They said a fire must have started from the live wires.

FOUND THE BODY

Before the accident, this young man name-Joe K. Ahsogeak son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Ahsogeak, told his friends that coming Sunday, he'll come back. They think that he has left to some place.

But when relatives gives work, to people that Joe hasn't come back, they start looking for him. And on Sunday afternoon they found his body outside the building besides the dogs.

We are with the parents.

STILL INCREASING

Population here is almost 2,000 and still raising. Right now we have about 33 or 34 school teachers just in Barrow alone.

There are several children yet who could enroll to the school but 3 schools here can't hold all of them at once.

SUN UP AGAIN

Now we do have sun here in Barrow after the sun been hidden for 2 long month. And from this day, we'll have it till we won't be able to see darkness atall in May, June and July.

CARIBOU NOT AROUND

Hunters said today that the games such as caribou must either go up toward mountains or toward Canada. Because each time they left village to hunt, they'd find nothing nowhere.

Polar bear came ashore yesterday in a night while people were staying awake yet. Before this polar bear could come any closer to houses, David Simmonds saw him, took his rifle and take a shot at the bear.

There was only one bullet in the gun.

Then Stanley took few shots and killed him. They said the bear is big and skinny.

SORRY FOLKS

Sorry folks, or readers of Tundra Times, of being delayed for so long in not writing or sending my columns to Tundra Times.

There here now. Again I say I'm sorry.

Jubilee Brings Out Lustre Of True Alaskan Gold

GLENNALLEN, Alaska-In 1920! Anyone remember back that far? Sister Mary Eulalia does!

That was the year Sister Mary Eulalia came to Alaska, via slow trains, steamers, and river boats.

Where was Sister going? To a gold mining field? No. Sister passed up the allure of Juneau, of Skagway, of Fairbanks-of various other potential "get rich" sites.

Along the Yukon River, river boats were plying. Sister came all the way down the Yukon to "the Smile of the Yukon," old Holy Cross Mission. This was a boarding school established in 1888.

There many hearts were waiting to be loved by Sister; there much work was waiting to be done.

Sister often speaks of her arrival at Holy Cross-of the lonely hours of the night, of the mud bank, of the howling dogs. All these were first impressions of a place Sister loved more and more each year.

At Holy Cross Mission, Sister's work varied throughout the 37 years of her unselfish, devoted, loving year-round concern for the children, the village, and neighboring areas.

Some of Sister's varied occupations included: care of the very small children (many of whom were homeless) at what came to be known as the "babyhouse."

This was one of the oldest buildings at Holy Cross, put together by wooden nails under the expert carpentry of old Captain Ivan Demientieff.

Sister was also teacher for a number of years of the Primary Class. Recollect-
