

UA Enrollment

University of Alaska officials expect more than 2,000 students to enroll for fall semester classes here during registration Saturday, Sept. 7.

Mrs. Laura E. Jones, UA director of admissions and registrar, announced that students should register Saturday, according to this schedule of hours:

Continuing students—8:30 to 9:30 a.m., seniors and graduate students; 9:30 to 10:30 a.m., juniors; and all other students—continuing from last semester; 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

New students and those enrolling from previous semesters—12:30 to 2 p.m., last names beginning A-F; 2 to 3:30 p.m., last names beginning G-M; 3:30 to 5 p.m., last names beginning N-S and T-Z; 5 to 6 p.m.

Mrs. Jones said that any students unable to register during the day at the designated hours may enroll from 6 to 8 p.m. Since there is only one day for enrollment, she explained, no other exceptions can be made to these registration hours on Saturday.

FINDING A BETTER WAY pays off for Roger Siwooko, a Food Service Worker at Alaska Native Medical Center. He's shown here with a happy expression over a check and certificate given in recognition of the young man's suggestion on a more efficient way to clean the coffee urns. Siwooko's device, a spray, was found not only to save time (and thus, money) but it does a better cleaning job than the old method. The "Beneficial Suggestion" received the cash award because it exceeds the normal requirements of his job. Washing the urns was not one of his duties, but he just observed how it was done and thought of a better way. Born in Gambell, Siwooko is active in Boy Scout work in the Anchorage area. Lauds Dist. Judge Pay Hike Proposal Barry Jackson, Democratic candidate for the State House of Representatives, today commended Governor Hickel for proposing to raise salaries of district judges.

"If elected, I will support a salary increase. However, the low salary is not the only reason for the lack of applications for appointment to the district court bench," Jackson said.

Another major factor is the progressive reduction of responsibilities given to district judges, according to Jackson.

"These courts lost probate jurisdiction shortly after statehood and most recently have lost juvenile court jurisdiction. Now that we have raised the standards to be appointed district judge and the Governor is prepared to pay an adequate salary, it is time to reverse this trend and give the district judges equivalent responsibilities," Jackson concluded.

"The District Courts are the courts close to Alaska natives, especially in rural Alaska. We must have capable, dedicated District Judges," Jackson added.
