

Lael Morgan Wins— Former TT Reporter Awarded Fund

NEW YORK, N.Y.—Five journalists have been chosen by a distinguished panel of judges to receive Alicia Patterson Fund fellowships for travel and study in 1972. It was announced today by Fund President Joseph P. Albright.

The fellowship winners in the seventh annual competition are: David C. Hamilton, 28, News Editor, NEWSDAY; James R. Hougan, 29, Reporter, THE CAPITAL TIMES (Madison, Wisconsin); Robert Kleiman, 53, Editorial Board, NEW YORK TIMES; Lael W. Morgan, 35, Reporter/Photographer, THE TUNDRA TIMES (Fairbanks, Alaska); and Jack Nessel, 33, Managing Editor, NEW YORK MAGAZINE.

Mr. Hamilton will be concerned with the use of leisure time by an increasingly unemployed middle class in the United States.

Mr. Hougan will make a comparative study of contemporary youth movements in Western Europe.

Mr. Kleiman will write on Europe beyond the Cold War.

Mrs. Morgan will live with and study the Alaskan Eskimos, Aleuts, and Indians in transition.

Mr. Nessel will survey the status of public broadcasting in France and England and its relationship to public broadcasting in the United States.

The panel of judges included Benjamin C. Bradlee, Executive Editor of THE WASHINGTON POST; Thomas Griffith, Editor of LIFE; John Hohenberg, Professor of Journalism, Columbia University School of Journalism; Pyke Johnson, Director of Editorial Operations, Doubleday Inc.; Mary McGrory, THE WASHINGTON STAR; William McIlwain, THE TORONTO STAR; Peter B. Martin, Senior Editor of TIME; Henry Allen Moe, The Clark Foundation; and Harrison Salisbury, Assistant Managing Editor of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

The fellowships were made possible through a bequest by the late Alicia Patterson Gugenheim, who was Editor and Publisher of NEWSDAY in Garden City for nearly twenty-three years before her death on July 2, 1963.

The fellowships cover travel, living and related expenses of the Fellows and their families during their fellowship year.

Fellowships are awarded annually in the autumn. The competition is open to newspaper, magazine, wire service and freelance writers, editors and photographers who have had at least five years' experience.

The program is open to proposals involving investigation of significant problems within the United States or overseas.

During their fellowship period, Alicia Patterson Fund Fellows write regular newsletters which are circulated to editors and other interested persons.

First Lung School—

For Chronic Pulmonary Diseases

The first Lung School for patients with chronic obstructive pulmonary diseases (emphysema, bronchitis and asthma) was held at the Alaska Clinic this week.

Sponsoring the program were the Alaska Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association which financed the special instructors and the Alaska Clinic.

Dr. George Stewart, Director of the Pulmonary therapy unit at Anchorage Community Hospital served as the Medical Director.

The purpose of the Lung School is to aid patients with chronic obstructive pulmonary disease to better manage their breathing and health problems.

A day of classes was held for 12 patients to initiate the program. Patients were instructed in basic concepts of pulmonary disease, inhalant and irritant avoidance, use of oral and inhaled bronchio-dilators, corticosteroids and antibiotics.

The mechanisms and side effects of medication were discussed. Chest physiotherapy, breathing exercises and effective coughing techniques were demonstrated.

Private physicians referred 10 of the patients. Others were from the Alaska Clinic. The first Lung School was available without charge to patients since the program was jointly sponsored and funded by the TB-RD association and the Clinic.

Future classes will be charged to the patient on the basis of two extended visits.

Physicians and patients may contact the TB Association at 272-2332 or Dr. George Stewart at 272-4551. Patients are accepted for the program only on physician referral.

Mr. Florence Best, Coordinator of a similar school at the Virginia Masoncenter, Seattle, Washington and Miss Jean Unwin, a chest physiotherapist at the Center instructed the patients and staff.
