17 Natives Enroll At Sheldon Jackson

Seventeen Alaskan Native students have proved their interest in getting ahead by enrolling in college courses at Sheldon Jackson College in Sitka.

Sitka and Sheldon Jackson College are located just across a channel from the Bureau of Indian Affairs school at Mt. Edgecumbe and just a short walk after a shoreboat ride brings the students to the college campus.

There, they join more than two hundred other students studying such varied curricula as Fishing, Forestry and Logging Management, Flight Training, Business Administration and Secretarial Sciences.

The seventeen, all seniors, include Grace Antogham of Gambell; Warner Bergman of Allakaket; Brian Burgess of Hydaburg; Grace Edwin of Tanana; Ada Etageak of Nome; Elizabeth Goodwin of Kotzebue; Ronald Itta of Barrow; Louis John of Circle; Hanna Loon of Selawik; Thonias I. Maillele of Anvik; Guy Okakok of Barrow; Melvin Otton of Nome; Lloyd Panigeo of Barrow; Vera Sheldon of Noorvik; Effie Vent of Huslia and Anesia Yohak of Kwethlak.

Heat sink freezers have been used with success across northern Europe, but the concept is as new to this continent as AEEL's modification is to Alaska.

"Once we get it working," Johnson said, "more freezers of this type could be built in other Alaskan villages for $25,000 or less."

When queried about undermining the perennial jest, Johnson replied, "Everybody but Alaskans used to think it was very funny, and now that Alaskans are finally doing it, we're the ones who are laughing."

Hickel to Introduce Justice Goldberg

Don Dickey, general manager of the Alaska State Chamber of Commerce will be Master of Ceremonies of the Third annual Alaskan of the Year Award Committee banquet to be held in the ballroom of the Anchorage Westward Hotel the evening of March 28th, it has been announced by Henry Hedberg, chairman of the Award Committee.

Arthur Goldberg, former United Nations Ambassador and member of the United States Supreme court will be the principal speaker and will be introduced by Cabinet Member Wally Hickel, Secretary of the Interior and former Governor of Alaska.

This will be Secretary Hickel's first trip to Alaska since his appointment to the Cabinet. Secretary Hickel will be accompanied by his wife Erma Lee.

Proceeds from the Alaskan of the Year Banquet are devoted to the Atwood Statehood Scholarship fund for Alaska born students in need of financial support.

Heretofore the scholarship fund has been confined to the Alaska Methodist University—but the committee this year will include the University of Alaska.
